Independent label check

Civic Operations . Group 23 . 30 messages to mark, please return within the week

What I am asking for. Below are 30 of our 308 test messages. For each one, write down the address, the cross street, the borough and the time exactly as they appear in the message, and pick the request type. Leave a box empty when the message does not contain that thing, which will be most of the time.

Why it matters. I wrote the rules, I marked all 308 messages, and I checked my own work, so a mistake I make every time is invisible. How often you and I agree is the only check on that test set that does not come from me. Please do not ask me what I put, and please do not look at `data/reference/nlp_gold_spans.csv`, because either one makes the exercise worthless.

How long it takes. About an hour. Disagreeing with me is a useful result, not a problem, so mark what you genuinely think rather than what you think I would have put.

1. The rules to mark by

These are copied automatically out of the labelling script itself, so they are word for word the rules the project runs on.

Slot	What to write down
Address	the main named location, with the house number if one is given and with the street type word. A street has to be named. "my street", "the road" and "number 12" get nothing, because no crew could be sent out on that alone.
Cross Street	a second named street given as a cross reference, so the second street in "corner of X and Y", in "X near Y" and in "from X to Y".
Borough	the borough name, including a leading "the" when the writer used one.
Time	when the problem started or how long it has lasted, including the leading preposition. Pure frequency is not a time, so "every night" gets nothing while "all night" is kept.
Hazard	the words naming the dangerous physical condition. Only for the five request types that actually carry this slot in the training data, which are RT002, RT020, RT022, RT023 and RT060. The script enforces that, so a hazard label on any other request type is dropped and reported rather than used.

Two things that are easy to get wrong. Write the words exactly as they appear in the message, so if it says atlantic ave then write atlantic ave and not Atlantic Avenue. And include the leading preposition on a time, so since yesterday rather than yesterday.

If a message genuinely has none of these, leave the whole row empty apart from the request type. An empty row is a real answer and it is what most of these messages should get.

2. The 30 messages

Drawn at random from the 308 with the seed 20261009, so the same 30 come out every time this document is rebuilt and nothing here was hand picked. The identifier in the first column is how I match your answers back to mine, so please keep it.

3. The request types to choose from

Write the code, for example RT001. If you think a message is an emergency that should go to 911, write EMERGENCY. If it is a real question that no crew can be sent to, such as asking how to renew a licence, write OTHER. If it is just hello or thanks, write SMALLTALK.

4. How to send it back

- Fill it in anywhere you like. This document, a spreadsheet, or a photo of it printed out. The identifier is the only thing I need kept.
- Do not check anything with me first. A question like does this count as an address tells you my answer and spoils that row. Use the rules in section 1 and write what you decide.
- Tell me where the rules were unclear. If you had to guess, that is a fault in how I wrote the rules and I want to know about it. It is as useful as the labels.
- What happens next. I compare your 30 against mine and report how often we agreed, per slot. That number goes into the report as the only independent check on the test set, with your name on it.
